IN presenting to the public the second edition of the Massachusetts Collection of Psalmody, the government of the HANDEL AND HAYDN SOCIETY, in behalf of their associates, would embrace the occasion, thus afforded, to make known their grateful acknowledgments for the very liberal patronage which has been extended to the publications and public performances of the institution, during a period of twenty-five years. The original design of this society of amateurs was to effect an improvement in the art of sacred music among its members, and to exert its influence to the same end in the community at large ; and it is gratifying to believe that this design has been faithfully kept in view, and that the influence of the society has not been exerted in vain. The improvement which has been introduced in church musical performances, and the very general interest which has been awakened to the cultivation of music, in all its various branches, must be no less pleasing to the lovers of sacred harmony, than it is creditable to those who have aided in securing such a beneficial result. It is now nearly twenty years since the Handel and Haydn Society first offered to the public a book of church music, and perhaps few similar publications have received so large a share of patronage as those which have been issued by this society, and which institution was also the first, in this country, to publish and perform entire oratorio music. The members of the Handel and Haydn Society have no other interest in the success of their society than that which arises from a desire to witness a more general diffusion of correct musical knowledge ; and having associated for the purpose of mutual improvement, and to advance a highly useful art, all the income which may accrue from their publications and their public exhibitions is expended in promoting the object of that association. They will, therefore, continue confidently to rely upon a generous and discriminating public for that encouragement and support which will enable them more successfully to prosecute the laudable objects of the society.

The following work comprises three classes of psalm and hymn tunes ; the old standard tunes, tunes selected from modern composers, and those composed expressly for this book. Most of the old tunes have been newly harmonized, and an effort made to impart strength and variety to the base, and, as far as possible, a melodious character to the tenor and alto. The principal melody, or air, has in no case been altered. The selection of tunes from modern composers is the result of a wide and copious examination. It is believed that this class of tunes will be found highly interesting and useful. The tunes composed for this work are quite numerous, embracing all the different metres, and much variety of style and rhythmical structure. Many new pieces have been introduced in the form of anthems, sentences, &c.; and in the department of chants, there will be found a much greater number and variety than in any previous work of this kind. The elementary principles are full and copious: the analytical method of Pestalozzi forms the ground-work of the general plan, arranged in the form of a text-book for the adult singing school. Practical exercises are interspersed. These will be found greatly to relieve the labor of writing on the lecture-board, and will also save much time to the class. Annexed to the elements are instructions on chanting, which are arranged systematically, and can be used either for individual instruction or in the singing school and choir.

It is ardently hoped that the Massachusetts Collection of Psalmody will be found to be worthy of public patronage, and that it will prove to be the happy means of still further introducing a pleasing, chaste, and correct style of performing church music; an object which none can more sincerely desire than the members of the Boston Handel and Haydn Society.

RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC.

INTRODUCTION.

OUTLINE OF THE SUBJECT.

§ 1. A piece of music consists of a succession of sounds, which differ in three particulars, viz.

1. LENGTH;
2. PITCH;
3. FORCE.

§ 2. In consequence of this distinction in musical sounds, the elementary principles are arranged under three general divisions.

1. RHYTHM; which treats of the relative length of sounds, of the mode of measuring their length, and also of the written characters which represent them as to length.
2. MELODY; which treats of the relative pitch of sounds, and of the characters which represent them as to pitch.
3. DYNAMICS; which treats of the relative force of sounds, with their various modifications, and also of the characters which represent these modifications.

§ 3. A practical knowledge of the particulars embraced under the above three departments, separate from each other, and also combined, comprehends all that relates to the elementary principles of music.

QUESTIONS.

How many distinctions in regard to sounds are perceived in a tune, or piece of music? What is the first distinction? The second? The third? Under how many general divisions are the elementary principles of music arranged? What is the first? The second? The third? What is the particular subject of Rhythm? Of Melody? Of Dynamics?

FIRST GENERAL DIVISION.—RHYTHM.

CHAPTER I.

OF TIME.

§ 4. A piece of music is divided into small equal portions, called MEASURES, by means of a perpendicular line, called a bar.

§ 5. Measures are also divided into smaller equal portions, called parts of measures.

§ 6. These parts are indicated in performance by certain motions of the hand, called beating time. These beats are used to aid the mind in making the divisions equal.

§ 7. A measure containing two parts is called DOUBLE MEASURE.
 “ “ THREE “ “ TRIPLE MEASURE.
 “ “ FOUR “ “ QUADRUPLE MEASURE.
 “ “ SIX. “ “ SEXTUPLE MEASURE.

§ 8. In double Measure there are two beats; first, downward; second, upward.

§ 9. In triple Measure there are three beats; first downward; second, inward; third, upward.

§ 10. In quadruple Measure there are four beats; first, downward; second, inward; third, outward; fourth, upward.

§ 11. Sextuple measure has six beats; first, downward; second, inward; third, outward; fourth, upward; fifth, inward; sixth, outward.

NOTE.—The second and third motions are by some teachers called hither and thither. The terms inward and outward are here used, as expressing the motions more simply and definitely.

§ 12. The sound on the first part of all these four classes of measure receives accent. In Quadruple Measure there is also a second accent on the third part; and in Sextuple, a second accent on the fourth part.

QUESTIONS.

What are those portions called, into which a piece of music is divided? What character indicates the division into measures? What are measures divided into? How are the parts of measures indicated? Why are motions of the hand used in marking the parts of measures? For what purpose are such motions used? What is Double measure? Triple? Quadruple? Sextuple? What motions, or beats, are used in Double measure? Triple? Quadruple? Sextuple? What part of every class of measure has accent? What classes of measure have also a second accent? Where is the second accent in Quadruple measure? In Sextuple?

§ 13. Musical sounds, as to their relative length, are represented by the following characters called NOTES, viz:

§ 14.

The WHOLE NOTE,  often called Semibreve.

“ HALF NOTE,  “ “ Minim.

“ QUARTER NOTE,  “ “ Crotchet.

“ EIGHTH NOTE,  “ “ Quaver.

“ SIXTEENTH NOTE,  “ “ Semiquaver.

§ 15. Three others sometimes occur; as the Thirty second,  the Sixty-fourth,  and also this Note,  which is called a BREVE.

§ 16. Table of the relative value of the notes.

The whole note  is equal to

2 halves,  which are equal to

4 quarters,  which are equal to

8 eighths,  which are equal to

16 sixteenths,

NOTE.—The scholars should here practice singing and beating the time of the different notes, using the syllable la. The above table might be sung in Quadruple measure.

§ 17. There are different forms of Double, Triple, Quadruple and Sextuple measure, which are distinguished by the kind of note which fills each part of the measure. Thus there is Double Measure of two halves; double measure of two quarters; Triple Measure of three quarters; triple measure of three eighths, &c.

§ 18. The species of measure in which a piece of music is written, and the value of its parts, are designated by figures in the form of a fraction, the upper of which indicates the number of parts, or the class of measure; and the lower, the kind of note used to each part, or the form of that class.

EXAMPLES.

Double Measure,  | Triple Measure,

Quadruple,  | Sextuple,

QUESTIONS.

How are musical sounds represented as to their length? What is the name of the longest note? Of the shortest, &c. How are the different forms of Double Measure &c., distinguished? How are the classes of measure designated? What is indicated by the upper of the two figures? What by the lower?

NOTE. The teacher should now turn to Melody, and teach the Class Chapter I. and Chapter II. as far as through § 41.

CHAPTER II.

§ 19. The last measure in a piece of music, and also the first, are often incomplete.

§ 25. Sometimes three notes, such as three quarters, three eighths, or three sixteenths, are equivalent to two of the same denomination, and are sung to one beat; these are called Triplets, and are usually designated by the figure 3 placed over them. The first note of a triplet receives accent.

SECOND GENERAL DIVISION.—MELODY.

CHAPTER I.

THE SCALE, SYLLABLES, AND LETTERS.

§ 26. The difference between any two sounds, as to pitch, is called an Interval.

§ 27. Musical sounds, as differing in pitch, are arranged in a certain order or series, called the scale.

§ 28. The scale embraces eight sounds, which are numbered in the order of their succession from the lowest upward.

§ 29. The sounds of the scale succeed each other by two kinds of intervals, called tones, and semitones or half-tones, as exhibited in the annexed diagram; in which the small divisions indicate the place of the semitones, and the large ones the places of the tones.

§ 30. From this diagram it will be seen that five of the intervals are tones, and two are semitones.

§ 31. The semitones or half-tone intervals fall between the third and fourth, and the seventh and eighth; the other intervals being tones.

§ 32. A series of sounds proceeding in this order is called the Major Diatonic Scale.

§ 33. When the scale is sung upwards, it is called the ascending scale; and when sung downward, the descending scale.

§ 34. The following syllables are used in singing the sounds of the scale: Do, Re, Mi, Fa, Sol, La, Si, Do; as above exhibited.

§ 35. The first seven letters of the alphabet A, B, C, D, E, F, and G, are also applied to the sounds of the scale, as above; commencing with the letter C.

NOTE.—Previous to any attempt on the part of the class to sing the scale, they should listen with the utmost care to the sounds as they there succeed, delivered by the teacher, either by singing, or by playing them on a well-tuned instrument. It should continue until the scholars feel, or so fully appreciate, the succession, that they are impressed with full confidence of success in the attempt to produce the sounds themselves. The fourth and seventh sounds of the scale are the most difficult to acquire. There is danger of their being sung too sharp.

QUESTIONS.

Which division treats of the pitch of sounds? What is an interval? How are these sounds arranged? How many sounds does the scale embrace? How are they designated? What is an interval? How many kinds of intervals in the order of the scale? What are they? How many of them are tones? How many are semitones? Where do the semitones fall? What is this series of sounds called? What is the scale called when sung upward? What when downward? What syllables are used in singing the scale? What letters? What letter is applied in the first or lowest sound of the scale.

CHAPTER II.

THE STAFF AND CLEFS.

§ 36. The intervals between sounds, whether tones, semitones, or larger intervals, are represented on the following diagram, called the staff; composed of five parallel lines, and the intervening spaces.

§ 37. Each of the lines and spaces is called a degree: thus the staff includes nine degrees—five lines and four spaces.

§ 38. Other degrees are added to the staff by means of short lines placed above and below the staff.

EXAMPLES.

§ 39. The situation of certain fixed and determinate sounds upon the staff, and also that of the corresponding letters, is determined by certain characters called Clefs.

§ 40. The clefs in common use are two; the Treble Clef, and the Base Clef.

§ 41. The Treble Clef represents a determinate sound, which is denoted by the letter G; and fixes both the sound and the letter to that line of the staff on which the broadest part of the clef is placed; which in modern music is the second line. The other sounds and letters follow in their order both above and below, thus:

NOTE.—The teacher is here recommended to sing, or produce on a musical instrument, the particular sound G, represented by the Treble Clef, and then, by singing, and at the same time pointing to the different degrees of the staff, show the scholars that the line on which the Clef is written also represents this sound, and that the other degrees represent the sounds of the scale in their regular order and gradation.

EXAMPLE OF THE SCALE ON THE TREBLE STAFF.

QUESTIONS.

How are the intervals between sounds represented? What does the staff consist of? What are the lines and spaces called? How many degrees does the staff include? How are other degrees added? How is the situation of the sounds upon the staff determined? How many Clefs in common use? What are they? What does the Treble Clef represent? To what line of the staff does the Treble Clef fix this sound? How are the other sounds situated?

EXAMPLES FOR PRACTICE, COMBINING MELODY AND RHYTHM.

NOTE.—Before proceeding to the Base Clef, the teacher should first sing the sound G, and request the females to do the same, and afterwards the males. He should then explain to them, that the difference which they perceive, arises from the fact that the males sing the sound, what is called, an Octave or eight notes lower than the females: in fact they sing all the exercises an Octave lower; and that this is the natural difference between the male and female voice. Also that G, and indeed all the notes, on the Treble staff, represent the sounds as sung by the females; and that the males sing them all an octave lower.

§ 42. The Base Clef represents a determinate sound denoted by F, and fixes both the sound and the letter on that line of the staff which passes between the two dots of the Clef; which in modern music is the fourth line. The other sounds and letters follow in their order, above and below the Clef; thus:

EXAMPLE OF THE SCALE ON THE BASE CLEF.

EXERCISES FOR PRACTICE ON THE BASE CLEF.

NOTE.—Let the teacher proceed as directed in the last preceding note, singing F instead of G. Let him call the attention of the school to the fact that they notice the same difference as before between the sound as sung by males, and by females. And let him explain to them that the notes on the bass staff represent the sounds as sung by the males; and that the females sing them an octave, or eight notes higher.

CHAPTER IV.

§ 44. Sounds may be sung both higher and lower than the scale hitherto given.

§ 45. When the scale is extended upward, the eighth sound of the scale is considered the first sound of a new scale above.

EXAMPLE OF THE SCALE ABOVE.

§ 46. When the scale is extended downward, the first sound of the scale is considered the eighth sound of a scale descending below.

EXAMPLE OF THE SCALE BELOW

§ 47. The scale below in the above example, is the same as that which is written on the Bass Staff: C on the first line above the bass staff representing the same sound as C on the first line below the Treble Staff.

§ 48. The scale on the base staff may in like manner be extended downward—but passes beyond the compass of most male voices.

EXAMPLE.

§ 49. The average compass of the human voice is from an octave and a half to two octaves. It is divided into four general classes, viz—Bass, Tenor, Alto and Treble.

§ 50. The Treble Clef is used in modern music not only for the Treble, but for the Alto, and also for the Tenor. When used for the Tenor, it represents the same sound as G on the fourth space of the bass staff; i. e. an octave lower than when used for the Treble.

§ 51. The base voice is the lowest male voice. The tenor is the highest male voice. The alto is the lowest female voice. The treble is the highest female voice.

TABLE OF THE GENERAL COMPASS OF THE DIFFERENT VOICES.

QUESTIONS.

Can the human voice sing sounds higher and lower than the scale? When the scale is extended upward, what does the eighth sound become? When downward, what does the first sound become? The scale below is the same as what scale? C on the first line above the bass staff represents the same sound as what note of the Treble Staff? When the scale is extended downward, is it within the general compass of male voices? What is the average compass of the human voice? Into how many classes is it divided? What are they? What is the Bass voice? The Tenor? The Alto? The Treble? For what voices is the Treble Clef used besides the Treble? When used for the Tenor what does it represent?

CHAPTER V.

DIATONIC INTERVALS.

§ 52. When intervals are reckoned on the diatonic scale, they are called diatonic intervals.

CHAPTER VI.

ON THE TRANSPOSITION OF THE SCALE.

§ 61. The scale has thus far commenced with the letter C. This is called the natural scale.

§ 62. The scale, however, may commence with either of the seven letters.

§ 63. When the scale is made to begin on any other letter than C, its general pitch is either higher or lower than the natural scale; and it is, therefore, said to be transposed.

§ 64. The scale is based on its first sound. This sound is called the tonic, or key.

NOTE.—Thus a scale beginning with C is said to be in the key of C—if with G, in the key of G &c. By which is meant that the letter C or G is the first sound of the scale.

§ 65. In transposition, the same order of the five tones and two semitones must be observed as in the natural scale. The intervals between three and four, and seven and eight, must always be semitones; and between the other sounds of the scale, they must be tones. Hence, in every transposition, it becomes necessary to elevate, or depress certain sounds, in order that the tones and semitones may occur in their proper places.

§ 66. The sign of elevation is called a sharp, written thus : #. The sign of depression is called a flat, written thus ♭.

§ 67. A sharp placed before a note indicates a sound one semitone higher, and a flat one semitone lower. The sound is then said to be sharped, or flatted, as sharp one, sharp two; flat one, flat two, &c., or #C, #D; ♭C, ♭D, &c.

§ 68. When the scale commences with any other letter than C, one or more of the sounds must either be sharped or flatted, that the relative position of the tones and semitones may be the same as found in the natural scale.

§ 69. The sharps or flats, required in any given transposition, are placed at the beginning of the staff, and are called the signature of the key.

CHAPTER VII.

TRANSPOSITION BY SHARPS.

§ 70. The order of the transpositions, requiring sharps, is by fifths; i. e. each scale is a fifth higher, or a fourth lower, and the transposition is effected by sharping the fourth of the preceding scale.

NOTE.—The keys beyond E with four sharps, are but seldom used, and need not, therefore, be much practised by the school.

CHAPTER VIII.

TRANSPOSITION BY FLATS.

§ 72. The order of the transpositions, requiring flats, is by fourths; i. e. each new scale is a fourth higher, or a fifth lower; and the transposition is effected by flating the seventh of the preceding scale.

CHAPTER XI.

DIMINISHED, MINOR, MAJOR, AND EXTREME SHARP INTERVALS.

§ 91. Each of the intervals is of three different species, or degrees of magnitude, according to the number of semitones of which it consists.

§ 92. If the SECOND consists of one semitone, it is called a minor second; if of two semitones, a major second; if of three semitones, an extreme sharp second.

Minor 2d. Major 2d. Sharp 2d.

§ 93. If a THIRD consists of two semitones, it is called a diminished third; if of three semitones, a minor third; if of four semitones, a major third.

Diminished 3d. Minor 3d. Major 3d.

§ 94. A FOURTH which consists of four semitones, is called a diminished fourth; of five semitones, a perfect fourth; of six semitones, a sharp, or superfluous fourth.

Diminished 4th. Perfect 4th. Sharp 4th.

§ 95. A FIFTH which consists of six semitones, is a flat fifth; of seven semitones, a perfect fifth; of eight semitones, an extreme sharp fifth.

Flat 5th. Perfect 5th. Extreme sharp 5th.

§ 96. A SIXTH which consists of eight semitones, is a minor sixth; of nine semitones, is a major sixth; of ten semitones, is a sharp sixth.

Minor 6th. Major 6th. Sharp 6th.

§ 97. A SEVENTH which consists of nine semitones, is a diminished seventh; of ten semitones, is a minor seventh; of eleven semitones, is a major seventh.

Diminished 7th. Minor 7th. Major 7th.

CHAPTER XII.

MINOR SCALE.

§ 98. A series of eight sounds, commencing on the sixth of a major scale, and proceeding in the regular order of sounds which belong to that scale, is called the diatonic minor scale.

EXAMPLE.

Major scale of C. Minor scale of A.

§ 99. The major scale, and the particular minor scale which commences on its sixth, are said to be related. The minor scale of A is, therefore, related to the major scale of C; and the major scale of C is related to the minor scale of A. (See the above example.) Thus, the relative minor of any major key is founded on its sixth, and the relative major of any minor key is founded on its third.

§ 100. In the ascending minor scale the sixth and seventh are each raised a semitone.

NOTE.—Another form of the Minor Scale sometimes occurs in which the seventh only is raised.

§ 101. The same syllables which are applied to the sounds of a major scale, are also applied to the same sounds in the relative minor; which, accordingly, begin and end with the syllable la.

The syllables to the altered sounds of the ascending minor scale, must terminate in the sound of ee, as in the case of the chromatic scale above mentioned.

THIRD GENERAL DIVISION.—DYNAMICS.

§ 107. Mezzo, an Italian word, signifying medium, or middle, (abbreviated MEZ., or M.,) is applied to sounds which are delivered by a moderate effort of the vocal organs. Such sounds form a medium between loud and soft.

§ 108. Forte, signifying strong, (abbreviated F.,) is applied to sounds which are delivered by an energetic and vigorous effort.

§ 109. Piano, which signifies soft (abbreviated PIA., or P.,) is applied to sounds which are emitted by a gentle and subdued effort of the organs.

P M F F M P

NOTE.—These three degrees of force prevail in almost all pieces of music. The strict observance of them is as essential to musical expression, as are light and shade to the beauties of a landscape.

§ 109. Pianissimo is the superlative of piano, and is applied to sounds which are emitted with the greatest possible sweetness and softness.

§ 110. Fortissimo, the superlative of forte, is applied to sounds which are delivered with extreme energy and power.

NOTE.—Great care is necessary in singing the extremes of soft and loud; to avoid, on the one hand, an unsteady and tremulous quality of tone, and, on the other, harshness and coarseness.

NOTE.—The effects of force designated by pp., p., m., f., ff., continue until contradicted by one of these same signs; i. e. when pp. occurs, the singer should continue to sing pianissimo until the occurrence of one of the other signs, as f., or m., &c., indicates a change.

CHAPTER II.

§ 111. Crescendo, (abbreviated CRÉS.) or \langle , is used when a sound or a succession of sounds is sung with a gradually increasing strength of voice.

§ 112. Diminuendo, (abbreviated DIM.) or \rangle , is used when a sound, or succession of sounds is sung with a gradually decreasing strength of voice.

§ 113. The Swelling tone is formed by gradually swelling a note to fortissimo and then gradually diminishing it to pianissimo ($\langle \rangle$.)

§ 114. The vibrating tone consists of a sudden increase and decrease of sound, or swell, ($\langle \rangle$.)

§ 115. The Explosive or Sforzando tone, is a forcible and sudden impulse of the voice, (sf., fz., or \rangle .)

§ 116. The Organ tone consists of a sound which is commenced, and prolonged with an even stress of voice.

NOTE.—The explosive tone very rarely occurs, and should be practised with much caution, on account of the danger of forcing or straining the vocal organs, and thus of injuring the voice. Its degree of intensity depends on the character of the phrase in which it occurs. The practical application of all the different tones of expression can only be acquired by observing the style, manner, and delivery of well-educated singers.

INSTRUCTIONS ON CHANTING.

CHAPTER I.

STRUCTURE OF THE CHANT.

§ 1. The Psalms, many parts of the Prophets, and some other portions of the sacred Scriptures, are written in what is called parallelism; that is, each verse is composed of two clauses, of nearly equal length, the second of which often seems to contain nearly the same idea as the first, expressed in different language. (See Ps. 47, 119, &c.) These parts of the Bible are well known to be regular poems in the original; and each verse consists of two lines. In Townsend's Bible, and some others, they are so printed.

§ 2. This fact, that each verse of the Psalms is made up of two distinct clauses, or lines, is the foundation of the common measured chant.

§ 3. A chant is a piece of music consisting of two distinct strains; to the first of which is sung the first line of a verse; and to the second, the second line. This is the single chant.

§ 4. The double chant is constructed on the same principles; except that it consists of four strains, and is intended for singing two verses.

§ 5. Sometimes the verses consist of three lines (See Ps. 24, ver. 7 to 10.) The chant is then made to consist of three strains, and is called ternary. (See Chant No. 40.)

§ 6. The first note in each strain is called the chanting note, because several words are sung or chanted to it, and, though usually written a whole note, yet it has no fixed time, but varies in length, according to the number of words sung to it.

§ 7. The remaining notes in each strain are called the cadence. The cadence of the first strain consists of two measures, and that of the second consists of three. (See Chant 25. Chant No. 43 is irregular.)

§ 8. Chants are in double measure of two halves; and are therefore accented on the first part of the measure, and unaccented on the second. If quarter notes occur, they are regarded as tied.

§ 9. The first strain of a chant consists, therefore, of the chanting note, and a cadence of two accents; and the second strain consists of the chanting note, and a cadence of three accents.

CHAPTER II.

APPLICATION OF THE WORDS TO THE CHANT.

§ 10. Those words which are sung to the chanting note are called the recitative; and those which are sung to the cadence are called the cadence.

§ 11. The rule for dividing a line into recitative and cadence is, to leave as many accented syllables for the cadence as there are accents in the cadence of the chant. In the first line of a verse, therefore, two accented syllables are left for the cadence; and in the second line, three.

§ 12. In some verses, these accented syllables embrace just syllables enough to sing the cadence; as in the first verse under Chant No. 25.

§ 13. Sometimes, however, one, two, and even three unaccented syllables follow the last accented one; and sometimes two unaccented syllables fall between two accented ones; but neither of these circumstances alters the arrangement.

§ 14. When two unaccented syllables, however, fall between two accented ones, this brings an accented and two unaccented syllables into the same measure. In this case, these three syllables are to be divided as explained in the three next sections.

§ 15. When these three syllables belong to one word, as, merciful; or when they consist of a word of two syllables, followed by a word of one syllable, as, glory of; or if they consist of an emphatic word of one syllable, followed by a word of two syllables accented on the second, as, world without;—in all these cases, the first two syllables should fall to the first half note of the measure, and the third to the second half note.

§ 16. When these three syllables consist of an emphatic word of one syllable, and a word of two syllables accented on the first, as, king over, the first should fall to the first half note, and the last two to the second.

§ 17. When they consist of an emphatic word of one syllable, followed by two unimportant words or syllables, they must sometimes be divided as directed in the last section, and sometimes as in the last but one, according to the sense and to the true reading.

§ 18. Two accented or emphatic syllables sometimes come together, without an unaccented syllable between them. In such cases, the first one must fill a whole measure, as in the second lines of verses 1 and 2 under Chant No. 31. In this work, when a syllable fills a measure, it is printed in Italics.

§ 19. Sometimes, also, there are not syllables enough to sing the cadence; in which case, one or more of them must fill a measure; as in verse 6, under Chant No. 31.

§ 20. In some instances, there is not the proper succession of accented and unaccented syllables to make up the cadence; and in such cases, one or more unaccented syllables must often be arranged to the accented part of the measure.

§ 21. In this work, the proper division of the words is indicated with precision by certain marks. The bars of the music are indicated in the words by perpendicular lines; and when three syllables fall in the same measure, they are divided to the two halves of the measure, by an inverted period, or a dot, at the top of the line.

CHAPTER III.

RULES FOR SINGING CHANTS.

§ 22. Though the chanting note has no fixed time, yet it should receive as many rythmical accents as there are accented syllables in the recitative.

§ 23. In singing the recitative, the utterance, pronunciation, accent, emphasis, and expression, should be the same as in slow reading. Accented and emphatic syllables should receive strong dynamic force, and unimportant syllables should be passed over lightly.

§ 24. If there is a passing note in the chanting measure, sing to it the last syllable of the recitative, if it be unaccented; but if the last syllable be accented, begin it on the chanting note, and continue it through the passing note.

§ 25. The cadence must be sung in strict time, the beat of which can be felt. But as much as possible of speaking utterance and expression, should be given to the words, even in the cadence.

§ 26. When two syllables fall to a note of the cadence, this note should be sung as a dotted quarter and an eighth, or as two quarters, according as the former of the two syllables is, or is not, more accented than the latter. The former is most commonly the case.

§ 27. So, also, when two quarter notes are met with in either half of a measure, they must often be sung as a dotted quarter and an eighth.

§ 28. The last accented syllable, and all the unaccented ones, which follow it, are sung to the last note. When two syllables fall to the last note, it should be sung as a quarter and a dotted half.

§ 29. Pauses marked by commas, &c., should be carefully noticed in the singing; but not in such manner in the cadence as to disturb the rhythm. In speaking and reading, more pauses are made than are marked; and in chanting, the observance of these adds much to the effect. Some of these pauses are indicated in this work by a double accent ("). The breath should be taken only at some pause.

“HOW BEAUTIFUL UPON THE MOUNTAINS.”

G. J. WEBB.

ALLEGRETTO.

Fla. Forte.

The first system of music consists of two staves. The upper staff is in treble clef with a key signature of one sharp (F#). It contains several measures of music, including trills marked 'tr' and slurs over groups of notes. The lower staff is in bass clef with the same key signature, providing a harmonic accompaniment with chords and single notes.

The second system continues the piece with two staves. The upper staff has a mezzo-piano (MP.) dynamic marking. The music continues with similar melodic and harmonic patterns as the first system.

How beau-ti - ful up-on the mountains, how beauti - ful, how beauti - ful,

The third system features two staves with lyrics written below the notes. The upper staff includes a SYM. (Symphony) marking. The lower staff includes MP. (mezzo-piano) and Pia. (Pianissimo) markings. At the bottom of the system, there are figured bass notations: D 2, $\frac{4}{3}$, $\frac{6}{3}$, $\frac{4}{2}$, $\frac{6}{3}$, $\frac{4}{3}$, $\frac{6}{3}$, $\frac{6}{3}$, $\frac{4}{3}$.

Detailed description: This is a page of a musical score for the hymn "Daughter of Zion." It features a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The key signature is one sharp (F#), and the time signature is 4/4. The score is divided into two systems. The first system contains the first two staves of music, with the vocal line starting on a whole rest and the piano accompaniment beginning with a forte dynamic. The second system contains the next two staves, with the vocal line continuing the melody and the piano accompaniment providing harmonic support. The piano part includes various dynamics such as forte, mezzo-piano (MP), and 8ves. (eight measures). The bottom of the page features a series of numbers (6, 4, 5, 3, 4, 2, 5, 3, 6, 4, 7, 5, 5, 3, 4, 2, 5, 3, 4, 3, 6) which are likely fingering or performance instructions for the piano part. The page number 272 is in the top left corner, and the title "Daughter of Zion." is at the top center, followed by "Continued." in the top right.

1. Lift up your heads, | O ye | gates;
And be ye lift up, | ye ever | lasting | doors;
And the King of | glory | shall come | in.
2. Who is this | King of | glory?
The Lord, | strong and | mighty;
The | Lord | mighty | in | battle.
3. Lift up your heads, | O ye | gates;
Even lift them up, | ye ever | lasting | doors;
And the King of | glory | shall come | in.
4. Who is this | king of | glory?
The | Lord of | hosts,
He | is the | King of | glory.

1. Judge me, O God, and | plead my | cause
Against an un | godly | nation:
O deliver me from the de | ceitful and | unjust | man.
2. For thou art the | God of | my | strength:
Why dost thou | cast me | off?
Why go I | mourning, because of the op | pression | of the | enemy ?
3. O send out thy | light and | thy | truth;
Let them | lead | me;
Let them bring me unto thy holy | hill, and | to thy | tabernacles.
4. Then will I go unto the | altar of | God,
Unto God, my ex | ceeding | joy:
Yea, upon the harp will I | praise thee, O | God, my | God.
5. Why art thou cast down, | O | my | soul?
And why art thou dis | quieted | with | in me?
Hope in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my | counte-nance, | and my | God.

Be acceptable | in thy | sight,
O Lord, my strength and my Re | deemer.

1. Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way?
By taking heed thereto according to thy word.
2. With my whole heart have I sought thee:
O let me not wander from thy commandments.
3. Thy word have I hid in mine heart,
That I might not sin against thee.
4. Blessed art thou, O Lord:
O teach thou me thy statutes.

5. With my lips have I declared
All the judgments of thy mouth.
6. I have rejoiced in the way of thy testimonies,
As much as in all riches.
7. I will meditate in thy precepts,
And have respect on to thy ways.
8. I will delight myself in thy statutes;
I will not forget thy word.

Blessed is the man that trusteth in him.
6. O fear the Lord, ye his saints;
For there is no want to them that fear him.
7. The young lions do lack, and suffer hunger;
But they that seek the Lord shall not want any good thing.
8. Come, ye children, hearken unto me:
I will teach you the fear of the Lord.
9. What man is he that desireth life,
And loveth many days, that he may see good?
10. Keep thy tongue from evil,
And thy lips from speaking guile.
11. Depart from evil, and do good;
Seek peace, and pursue it.

1. Whither shall I | go from thy | Spirit?
Or whither | shall I | flee from thy | presence?
2. If I ascend up into | heaven; thou art | there!
If I make my bed in | hell; be | hold, thou art | there.
3. If I take the | wings of the | morning,
And dwell in the | uttermost | parts of the | sea;
4. Even there thy | hand shall | lead me,
And | thy right | hand shall | hold me.

5. If I say, Surely the | darkness shall | cover me;
Even the | night shall be | light a | bout me.
6. Yea, the darkness hideth | not from | thee;
But the night | shineth | as the | day.
7. Search me, O God, and | know my | heart;
Try | me, and | know my | thoughts;
8. And see if there be any wicked | way in | me,
And lead me | in the | way ever | lasting.

1. This is the day which the | Lord hath | made;
We will be | glad and re | joice in | it.
2. Save now, I be | seech thee, O | Lord:
O Lord, I be | seech thee, send | now pros | perity.

5. For in the | time of | trouble
He shall | hide me in | his pa | vilion;
6. In the secret of his tabernacle | shall he | hide me:
He shall | set me up | on a | rock.
7. And now shall mine head be | lifted | up
Above mine | enemies | round a | bout me:
8. Therefore will I offer in his tabernacle' | sacrifices | of | joy;
I will sing, yea, I will sing | praises | unto the | Lord.

1. O God, thou | art my | God:
Early | will I | seek | thee.
2. My soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh | longeth | for | thee,
In a dry and thirsty | land, where no | water is;
3. To see thy | power and thy | glory,
So as I have | seen thee | in the | sanctuary.
4. Because thy loving kindness is | better than | life,
My | lips shall | therefore | praise thee.
5. Thus will I bless thee | while I | live:
I will lift | up my | hands in thy | name.
6. My soul shall be satisfied' as with | marrow and | fatness
And my mouth shall | praise thee with | joyful | lips.

1. Give unto the Lord, | O ye | mighty,
Give unto the | Lord | glory and | strength.
2. Give unto the Lord the glory | of his | name;
Worship the | Lord in the | beauty of | holiness.
3. The voice of the Lord is up | on the | waters:
The God of glory thundereth: the Lord | is up | on great | waters.
4. The voice of the | Lord is | powerful;
The voice of the | Lord is | full of | majesty.
5. The Lord sitteth up | on the | flood;
Yea, the Lord | sitteth | King for | ever.
6. The Lord will give | strength to his | people;
The Lord will | bless his | people with | peace.

1. Give ear to my | words, O | Lord;
Con | sider my | medi | tation.
2. Harken unto the voice of my cry, my | King and my | God;
For unto | thee | will I | pray.
3. My voice shalt thou hear in the | morning, O | Lord;
In the morning will I direct my prayer unto | thee, and | will look | up.
4. For thou art not a God that hath | pleasure in | wickedness.
Neither shall | evil | dwell with | thee.

5. The foolish shall not | stand in thy | sight;
Thou hatest all | workers | of in | iquity.
6. Thou shalt destroy | them that speak | leasing;
The Lord will abhor the | bloody and de | ceitful | man.
7. But as for me, I will come into thy house'' in the multitude | of thy | mercy;
And in thy fear will I worship | toward | thy | holy | temple.
8. Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteousness, be | cause of | mine | enemies;
Make thy way | straight be | fore my | face.

[Ps. lxxiii.]

JONES.

1. Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift | up my | soul:
O my | God, I | trust in | thee.
2. Let me | not be a | shamed,
Let not mine | enemies | triumph | over me:
3. Yea, let none that wait on | thee' be a | shamed:
Let them be ashamed which trans | gress with | out a | cause.
4. Show me thy ways, O Lord; | teach me' thy | paths,
Lead me | in thy | truth, and | teach me:
5. For thou art the God of | my sal | vation:
On thee | do I | wait all the | day.
6. Remember not the sins of my youth, nor | my trans | gressions:
According to thy mercy'' remember thou me'', for thy | goodness' | sake, O | Lord.
7. Good and up | right' is the | Lord:
Therefore will he teach | sinners' | in the | way.
3. The meek will be | guide in | judgment,
And the | meek' will he | teach his | way.
9. All the paths of the Lord are | mercy' and | truth
Unto such as keep his | cove'nant | and his | testimonies.

1. Truly God is | good to | Israel,
Even to | such' as are | clean of | heart.
2. But as for me, my feet were | almost | gone;
My | steps had | well nigh | slipped.
3. Nevertheless I am | ever' with | thee:
Thou hast | held me' by | my right | hand.
4. Thou shalt guide me | with thy | counsel,
And afterward re | ceive me | into | glory.
5. Whom have I in | heaven' but | thee?
And there is none upon earth that | I de | sire be-side | thee.
6. My flesh and my | heart | faileth;
But God is the strength of my | heart', and my | portion' for | ever.
7. For, lo, they that are far from | thee shall | perish;
But it is good for | me to draw | near to | God:
8. I have put my trust | in the' Lord | God,
That I may de | clare | all thy | works.

1. Thou dost visit the | earth, and | water it;
Thou greatly enrichest it withⁿ the river of | God, which is | full of | water.
2. Thou pro | parest: them | corn,
When thou hast | so pro | vided | for it.
3. Thou waterest the ridges there | of a | bundantly;
Thou | settlest: the | furrows: there | of.
4. Thou makest it | soft with | showers;
Thou | blessest: the | springing: there | of.

5. Thou crownest the | year with: thy | goodness,
And thy | footsteps | do drop | fatness.
6. They drop upon the pastores | of the | wilderness,
And the little hills re | joice on | every | side.
7. The pastures are | clothed with | flocks,
The valleys also are | covered | over with | corn.
8. They | shout for | joy,
Yea, | they do | also | sing.

No. 60. DOUBLE CHANT. [Ps. viii.]

[Ps. xcii.]

G. J. WEBB.

1. O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is thy name in | all the | earth!
Who hast set thy | glory: a | bove the | heavens.
2. Out of the mouth of babes and sucklingsⁿ hast thou ordained strengthⁿ, be | cause of: thine | enemies;
That thou mightest still the | ene-my | and the a | venger.
3. When I consider thy heavens, the | work of: thy | fingers;
The moon and the | stars, which | thou hast or | dained;
4. What is man, that thou art | midful: of | him?
And the son of | man, that thou | visitest | him?
5. For thou hast made him a little lower | than the | angels,
And hast crowned | him with | glory: and | honor.
6. Thou madest him to have dominionⁿ over the | works of: thy | hands:
Thou hast put | all things | under his | feet;
7. All | sheep and | oxen,
Yea, | and the | beasts: of the | field;
8. The fowl of the air, and the | fish: of the | sea,
And whatsoever passeth | through the | paths: of the | seas
9. O | Lord, our | Lord,
How excellent is thy | name in | all the | earth!

1. It is a good thing to give | thanks: unto the | Lord,
And to sing praises unto thy | name, O | thou Most | High;
2. To show forth thy loving kindness | in the | morning,
And thy | faithful-ness | every | night,
3. Upon an instrument of ten strings, and up | on the | psaltery;
Upon the | harp with a | solemn | sound.
4. For thou, Lord, hast made me glad | through thy | work;
I will triumph | in the | works of: thy | hands.
5. The righteous shall flourish | like the | palm-tree;
He shall | grow: like a | cedar in | Lebanon.
6. Those that be planted in the | house: of the | Lord
Shall flourish | in the | courts of: our | God.
7. They shall still bring forth | fruit in: old | age;
They | shall be | fat and | flourishing;
8. To show that the Lord | is up | right:
He is my rock, and there is | no un | righteous-ness | in him.

1. Praise | ye the | Lord.
Praise God in his sanctuary : praise him in the | firma'ment | of his | power.
2. Praise him for his | mighty | acts ;
Praise him according | to his | excel-lent | greatness.
3. Praise him with the | sound of the | trumpet ;
Praise him | with the | psaltery and | harp.
4. Praise him with the | timbrel and | dance ;
Praise him with | stringed instru | ments and | organs.
5. Praise him up | on the loud | cymbals ;
Praise him up | on the high | sounding | cymbals.
6. Let every thing that hath breath | praise the | Lord.
Halle | lujah : | praise ye the | Lord.

1. Thy mercy, O Lord, is | in the | heavens,
And thy faithfulness | reacheth | unto the | clouds.
2. Thy righteousness is like the great mountains ; thy judgments | are a great | deep.
O Lord, thou pre | servest | man and | beast.
3. How excellent is thy loving | kindness, O | God !
Therefore the children of men^u put their trust under the | shadow | of thy | wings.
4. They shall be a | boundantly | satisfied
With the | fatness | of thy | house ;
5. And thou shalt | make them | drink
Of the | river | of thy | pleasures.
6. For with thee is the | fountain of | life :
In thy | light shall | we see | light.

1. My soul, wait thou | only on | God ;
For my expec | tation | is from | him.
2. He only is my rock and | my sal | vation :
He is my de | fence ; I shall | not be | moved.
3. In God is my salvation | and my | glory :
The rock of my strength , and my | refuge , | is in | God.
4. Trust in him | at all | times ;
Ye people, pour | out your | heart be | fore him.
5. God hath | spoken | once ;
Twice have I heard this , that | power be | longeth to | God.
6. Also unto thee, O Lord, be | longeth | mercy ;
For thou renderest to every man ac | cording | to his | work.

1. The Lord hath prepared his | throne in the | heavens ;
And his kingdom | ruleth | over | all.
2. Bless the Lord, | ye his | angels,
That excel in strength, that do his commandments, hearkening | unto the | voice of | his | word.
3. Bless ye the Lord, all | ye his | hosts,
Ye ministers of | his, that | do his | pleasure.
4. Bless the Lord, all his works, in all places of | his do | minion :
Bless the | Lord, | O my | soul.

A Grace,	228	How beautiful upon the mountains,	232	Sanctus,	230
And the glory of Jehovah,	279	I acknowledge my transgressions,	226	Sanctus,	263
Benediction,	206	I will arise, and go to my father,	224	Teach me, O Lord,	248
Blessed are the dead,	246	I will lay me down,	269	Thanksgiving Anthem,	254
Come, ye disconsolate,	267	Let the words of my mouth,	227	The Lord is in his holy temple,	223
Create in me a clean heart, O God,	229	O give thanks unto the Lord,	252	Turn thy face from my sins,	242
Daughter of Zion,	271	Our Lord is risen from the dead,	268	Unto us a child is born,	291
Glory to God in the highest,	286	Peace, troubled soul,	270	Weep not for me,	266
Hallelujah, (Round,)	271	Roll on, thou mighty ocean,	266	When the wicked man,	221
Holy, Lord God of Hosts,	229	Salvation to our God,	293	Worthy is the Lamb,	282
Hosanna,	289
